ABOUT

I am a Full Stack Software Developer who loves working with teams to create, design, and deploy apps. I'm passionate about connecting people and making the world a better place through tech. I have a diverse background in both my work history and personal life, I've done everything from fire fighting to wood working. This has given me strong communication skills. I've recently created a full stack job tracking site Workür, a backend Napster Clone and a Marvel Comic app using TDD, Agile practices and Mob programming.
